

Charles K. Edge

Dr. Charles Edge has spent over fifty years doing research in the area of glass science and technology. After receiving a B. S. (Ch. E.) from Carnegie Mellon University and an M. S. and Ph. D (both in Ch.E.) from the University of Illinois, he joined PPG Industries and spent his career in various aspects of glass research, specializing in studies relating to float glass technology. He retired in 2000 and has been active as a consultant and lecturer since then.

He has 12 publications, 32 technical presentations, 9 U. S. patents, and 27 lectures and short courses on float glass manufacture.

He is a member of the American Ceramic Society, the Mathematical Association of America, and the American Physical Society.

He is a recipient of the PPG President's Award for technical excellence, a member of the PPG Technical Collegium, and was elected a Fellow of the American Ceramic Society in 2003.