

Marquette University invites applications for the following tenure-track faculty position in the Department of Educational Policy and Leadership in the School of Education. The rank is open; however, we especially seek teacher-scholars who have an established record of research and publication, and effective teaching experience. The successful candidate will teach and advise in our undergraduate and graduate programs, conduct and publish research, engage in service activities within the University, and be part of our ongoing discussion on the role of social justice in education.

Start date is August 15, 2006. Salaries are competitive.

Educational Leadership/Administration – RANK OPEN

Qualifications: Doctorate in education or related field, K-12 teaching and administrative experience, and/or college teaching experience. Successful mentoring of doctoral students is strongly preferred.

Marquette University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution in the city of Milwaukee, WI, is committed to increasing diversity among its faculty and students. The university strives toward excellence, faith, leadership and service. The School of Education is strongly committed to recruiting faculty from underrepresented groups who will help us fulfill our mission of becoming men and women for others. The Department's 12 full-time faculty members are an engaged and collegial group dedicated to the preparation of teachers, principals, university professors and other leaders who will live the social justice mission of the university and the School of Education. The Department of Educational Policy and Leadership offers a doctoral program, master's degree programs in Curriculum and Instruction and Educational Leadership, as well as elementary and secondary teacher certification programs.

Review of nominations and applications will begin November 4, 2005 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and a list of references to:
