

Counseling Psychology Position Announcement

The College of Education at Lehigh University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in our APA-accredited Counseling Psychology Program.

We are looking for a scientist-practitioner whose scholarly interests fit with our mission of offering a multicultural and global education to graduate students. The successful candidate will have a research focus within a recognized area of counseling psychology and is expected to contribute to the program's mission in research, teaching, and supervision of students in practicum and fieldwork settings. It is anticipated that the successful candidate will have a counseling psychology-based programmatic research agenda. Candidates with the following credentials will be considered:

- Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from an APA accredited training program with a scientist-practitioner emphasis
- Licensed, or license eligible, as a psychologist in Pennsylvania
- Demonstrated or potential for masters and doctoral graduate research, teaching, advising, and supervision
- Interest and background in signature areas of the Lehigh Counseling Psychology Program (i.e., diversity and multicultural issues, international counseling psychology, social justice, counseling process and supervision, school counseling)
- Promise of a strong scholarly record and program of research, and potential to successfully seek external funding

About Lehigh. Lehigh University is a Doctoral/Research Extensive university of 4400 undergraduates and 1800 graduate students, located in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania with easy access to New York City and Philadelphia. The Counseling Psychology Program is housed in the College of Education and offers a doctorate in Counseling Psychology as well as masters' degrees in Counseling and Human Services, Elementary School Counseling, Secondary School Counseling, and International Counseling.

Additional information about the Counseling Psychology's degree programs is available at <http://www.lehigh.edu/education/cp/>.

Send. Letter of application, current vita, selected publications, and three letters of reference electronically to: cpsearch@lehigh.edu. Inquiries and nominations can be directed to: Arpana G. Inman, Ph.D. Search Committee Chair, Department of Education and Human Services, College of Education, Lehigh University, email: agi2@lehigh.edu. Review of applications will begin November 30, 2010 and will continue until the position is filled. Start date is August 2011. General information about Lehigh University can be found at: <http://www.lehigh.edu>, and specific information about the College of Education can be found at: <http://www.lehigh.edu/education/facultysearches>. Lehigh University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits. See Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty website: <http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/faculty/worklifebalance.html>