Upholding Academic Integrity and Community Standards at Lehigh
This presentation will help spark discussions between faculty and students about upholding academic integrity and community standards.

It includes

(a) the Student Senate’s “Statement on Academic Integrity,”

(b) the University’s syllabus statement affirming “The Principles of Our Equitable Community,” and

(c) ten vignettes, based on actual recent cases at Lehigh, offered to prompt discussion and reflection about Academic Integrity and Community Standards.
“We, the Lehigh University Student Senate, as the standing representative body of all undergraduates, reaffirm the duty and obligation of students to meet and uphold the highest principles and values of personal, moral and ethical conduct. As partners in our educational community, both students and faculty share the responsibility for promoting and helping to ensure an environment of academic integrity. As such, each student is expected to complete all academic course work in accordance to the standards set forth by the faculty and in compliance with the University's Code of Conduct.”
Lehigh University endorses The Principles of Our Equitable Community.

We expect each member of this class to acknowledge and practice these Principles.

Respect for each other and for differing viewpoints is a vital component of the learning environment inside and outside the classroom.
A student submitted a paper that the faculty member suspected was plagiarized because the writing style was more professional and more advanced than the student had submitted before. The student admitted to using ChatGPT to assist in writing the paper.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
The student was charged with

- Academic Dishonesty (General Violations)
  Failure to act in a manner that reflects personal and intellectual honesty.

- Academic Dishonesty B1 (Plagiarism 1)
  The direct use or paraphrase, of the work, themes or ideas, of another person without full and clear acknowledgment.

- Academic Dishonesty B2 (Plagiarism 2)
  Submitting the work of another as your own in any assignment (including papers, tests, labs, homework, computer assignments, or any other work that is evaluated by the instructor).

Sanctions:

A disciplinary warning

A recommendation for a “0” on the paper.

Completion of the Academic Integrity Seminar
Vignette #2

Two students were enrolled in a class that required coding. After the assignments were turned in, the grader saw that the students’ code was exactly the same except that variable names were changed and the remarks were altered. During the investigation, Student A told the faculty member that after he completed the assignment he sent his code to his friend so that he could understand the assignment better.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
Both students were charged with

- Academic Dishonesty (General Violations)
  Failure to act in a manner that reflects personal and intellectual honesty.
- Academic Dishonesty B1 (Plagiarism 1)
  The direct use or paraphrase, of the work, themes or ideas, of another person without full and clear acknowledgment.
- Academic Dishonesty B2 (Plagiarism 2)
  Submitting the work of another as your own in any assignment (including papers, tests, labs, homework, computer assignments, or any other work that is evaluated by the instructor).
- Academic Dishonesty A6 (Collusion)
  Collusion occurs when students willfully give or receive unauthorized or unacknowledged assistance.

Sanctions:
- Student A was found responsible for collusion and received a Disciplinary Warning and had to complete the Academic Integrity Seminar.
- Student B was found responsible for all of the charges:
  - Disciplinary Probation for two semesters
  - The panel recommended a grade of 0 on the homework portion of the class.
  - The student had to complete the academic integrity seminar.

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
A student submitted a paper in a class that was improperly cited and plagiarized. The faculty member had told the student after submitting a draft that she believed that the student had plagiarized parts of the paper and that it was not properly cited. The student did not correct these issues.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
The student was charged with, and found responsible for:

- Academic Dishonesty (General Violations)
  Failure to act in a manner that reflects personal and intellectual honesty.
- Academic Dishonesty B1 (Plagiarism 1)
  The direct use or paraphrase, of the work, themes or ideas, of another person without full and clear acknowledgment.
- Academic Dishonesty B2 (Plagiarism 2)
  Submitting the work of another as your own in any assignment (including papers, tests, labs, homework, computer assignments, or any other work that is evaluated by the instructor).

Sanctions:
- The student was Suspended from Lehigh University for two semesters.
- The student received an “F” in the course.
- The student was required to complete the Academic Integrity Seminar.
- NOTE: The sanctions in this case were increased because the student had a similar academic integrity violation two years earlier.

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
During an exam, a student asked to use the restroom. When the student left the room, the faculty member found that the student had accessed Course Site material from a mobile device.

Vignette #4 Outcome

The student was found responsible for

- Academic Dishonesty (General Violations)
  Failure to act in a manner that reflects personal and intellectual honesty.
- Academic Dishonesty A1 (Cheating on Quizzes/Exams)
  The use of any unauthorized assistance in taking quizzes, tests, or examinations. (Note: The possession at any quiz or examination of any articles which are prohibited will be regarded as evidence of responsibility.)

Sanctions:

- The student was placed on disciplinary deferred suspension for one semester and probation for the following semester.
- The student was assigned a grade of “F” in the course.
- The student was required to complete the Academic Integrity Seminar
- The sanctions in this case were increased because the student had recently had an alcohol violation and was on probation. The panel also recommended that the student seek assistance at the counseling center.

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
A faculty member gave an exam in a large lecture hall. There were multiple versions of the exam with different values in the questions. A student turned in Exam version A with answers from Exam version B. The student admitted to looking off someone else’s paper.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
The student was found responsible for:

- Academic Dishonesty (General Violations)
  Failure to act in a manner that reflects personal and intellectual honesty.

- Academic Dishonesty A1 (Cheating on Quizzes/Exams)
  The use of any unauthorized assistance in taking quizzes, tests, or examinations. (Note: The possession at any quiz or examination of any articles which are prohibited will be regarded as evidence of responsibility.)

Sanctions
- The student was placed on Disciplinary probation for two semesters
- The student was assigned a grade of “F” in the course.
- Required to complete the Academic Integrity Seminar

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
Three students were in the same group in a lab course. The students were told they could do the experiment as a group but were required to write their own lab reports. Two of the students plagiarized the third student’s report.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
The two students who plagiarized were charged with:

- Academic Dishonesty B1 (Plagiarism 1): The direct use or paraphrase of the work, themes or ideas, of another person without full and clear acknowledgment.

- Academic Dishonesty B2 (Plagiarism 2): Submitting the work of another as your own in any assignment (including papers, tests, labs, homework, computer assignments, or any other work that is evaluated by the instructor).

- Academic Dishonesty A6 (Collusion): Collusion occurs when students willfully give or receive unauthorized or unacknowledged assistance. Both parties to the collusion are considered responsible.

- The student who gave them the report was charged with Academic Dishonesty A6 (Collusion)

• All three students were found responsible for all the charges.

• All were placed on Disciplinary Probation for one semester.

• All three students failed the course.

• The panel imposed these sanctions as this was a capstone course for their major.

• All three students were barred from graduating because of the “F” in the course.

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
A graduate student was required to take a competency exam before moving forward in a doctoral program. The faculty member gave clear instructions that students were not permitted to use any materials during the competency exam. The student brought a flash drive into the exam and used sources on the flash drive.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
The student was charged with cheating on quizzes and exams, the use of unauthorized sources, and plagiarism.

- Definitions from the Code of Conduct: Cheating includes but is not limited to The use of any unauthorized assistance in taking quizzes, tests, or examinations. (The possession at any quiz or examination of any articles which are prohibited will be regarded as evidence of responsibility.)

- Unauthorized Sources: The dependence upon the aid of sources beyond those authorized by the instructor in writing papers, preparing reports or homework, solving problems, or carrying out other assignments.

- Plagiarism: (1) The direct use or paraphrase, of the work, themes or ideas, of another person without full and clear acknowledgement.  (2) Submitting the work of another as your own in any assignment (including papers, tests, labs, homework, computer assignments, or any other work that is evaluated by the instructor).

The student was found responsible and expelled from Lehigh University.

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
Students were given a Take Home Exam and told explicitly that they were not to work together on the exam. Two students turned in exams that had very similar wrong answers to several questions. It was alleged that the students worked together on the exam.

What do you expect will happen in this situation?
Both students were charged with and found responsible for:

- Academic Dishonesty (General Violations)
  Failure to act in a manner that reflects personal and intellectual honesty.

Sanctions:
- The students were placed on Disciplinary probation for two semesters
- The students were assigned a grade of “F” in the course.
- The students were required to complete the Academic Integrity Seminar

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
Prior to the start of class, two students have a heated discussion regarding the current national political climate. The discussion spills over into class time and the two students each make rude and derogatory comments about the other. The professor does not say anything to the disruptive students.

A week later, a similar incident occurs and the students exchange several insulting and offensive words during class time. A few other students in the course, distracted by the arguing and offended by the language being used, feel that this behavior is having a negative impact on their ability to learn in the classroom.

What could a student do in this situation?
Vignette #9 Outcome

If the students feel comfortable, they should first discuss the situation with the professor. If the students are not comfortable having that conversation, they can consult with their advisor, Department Chair, the University Ombudsperson, or the Office of Academic Life and Student Transitions.

Any of these individuals can advise the student on how to handle situations like this one and, as appropriate, may provide the faculty member with resources on alternative approaches to handling classroom conflict and student concerns. If the student feels that the situation has not been adequately addressed, the student should contact the Associate Dean of their College.

If the student believes that the conduct implicated a protected characteristic, and could constitute harassment or discrimination, the student can also reach out to the Equal Opportunity Compliance Coordinator.

How can we avoid such a situation in our class?
A few weeks into a business course, a female student notices that her professor calls more frequently on the male students and answers their questions, ignoring when the female students have their hands raised. The female student feels that the professor provides more assistance to male students during office hours and assists them with securing internship opportunities as compared to how he treats the female students. The professor never remembers the names of female students but always remembers the male students’ names. The female student, made uncomfortable by the professor’s actions and comments, is considering dropping the class.

What could a student do in this situation?
If the student feels uncomfortable, she should first discuss the situation with the professor. If the student perceives that the professor’s actions (calling on women more than men) is due to her sex, she has the right to pursue this matter, informally or formally, through the University’s Policy on Harassment and Non-Discrimination. The student should speak with the Equal Opportunity Compliance Coordinator regarding any questions she has, to discuss possible informal resolution, or to file a complaint. If the student decides to speak with her advisor, department chair, or other member of the University community for guidance, those individuals will also report the situation to the Equal Opportunity Compliance Coordinator.

If the student does not know if the conduct constitutes harassment, or believes the professor is just being inappropriate or dismissive, she should still contact the Equal Opportunity Compliance Coordinator to discuss whether or not the behavior constitutes harassment, or the department chair, who may be able to discuss the matter with the faculty member and/or move the student to another section.
